Massa Kahn was arrested at a late hour last evening by the Richmond police and locked up in the city prison as a suspect. The prisoner refused to talk when interviewed in the city prison this morning. He said he knew nothing of the murder. Massa Kahn is a partner of Saidali Kahn, the Turk, who is known to have paid attention to the murdered girl. District Attorney A. B. McKenzie and Deputy Sheriff Wm. Veale came down from the county seat this morning and spent most of the day in the vicinity of Stege investigating the case that seems to be baffling the authorities.

Rosa Domingo, daughter of Manuel Domingo, a Portuguese resident of Stege, Contra Costa county, was the girl whose battered body, chained and almost nude, was found on Saturday anchored by weights in a foot or two of water at low tide at the end of the long wharf which

THE ELKS FIESTA WAS BIG EVENT

A number of the Richmond Bills of this city attended the closing fiesta of the Elks at Idora park yesterday afternoon. The affair closed with a confetti battle royal, in which more than four thousand spectators took part.

One of the features of the Elks fiesta was the Forty-Niners camp, in which one could play anything from faro to roulette, phoney money being used instead of the real article. Elks from all over the state were present at the big event and all report having had the time of their lives.

BERT FARRIS, CASE CONTINUED ONE WEEK AGAIN

The matter of allowing Bert Farris, the well known real estate man, who recently pleaded guilty to obtaining money from a Berkeley domestic under fraudulent representations, out on probation, again came up in the superior court this morning at Martinez before Judge Latimer.

The case had been postponed on motion of Probation Officer McMahon from last Monday. The county's probation officer again asked the court to continue the matter over until next Tuesday, October 16th.

It appears that Farris must secure a steady job before the county's probation officer will consent to his release on probation, and thus far Farris has failed to get the position demanded by the authorities.

Farris' friends, it is said, are making an effort to secure a position for him and it may be possible that something definite will be done between this date and next Tuesday. Farris is still out on bonds furnished by his friends.

Attorney C. A. Clark, of this city, was a business visitor in Martinez this afternoon.

LOCAL BOARD WILL SEND DELEGATES TO CALIFORNIA REALTY FEDERATION

A special meeting of the Richmond Real Estate board will be held tomorrow for the purpose of taking up the matter of electing delegates to the ninth annual convention of the State Realty Federation, which convenes at Hotel Del Monte, on October 16th.

The results of this convention, which will be attended by real estate men from all parts of California, will be reflected in improved methods of transacting the real estate business, and in the formulation of plans for legislation reform, in matters affecting real estate ownership, its taxation, transfer and improvement.

Program arrangements have been perfected. Features provided for the consideration and discussion of the delegates give promise of much resultful work by the convention, and serve to indicate the broad scope of California State Realty Federation activities.

Robert Newton Lynch, vice-president of the California Development board, will deliver an address on "The Work of the New State Immigration Commission." "The Greatest Factor in Agricultural Development" is a topic to be handled by Col. S. W. Ferguson of San Francisco, one of the discoverers of Imperial valley.

M. F. Tappey of Fresno, who has been so successful in fighting for the life of the California wine and grape industry during the tariff revision at this session of congress, and deliver an address on "Viticulture: Its Relation to California Prosperity." A. L. Shinn of Sacramento, well known attorney of the capital city, will discuss various phases of "Irrigation and Reclamation Work." "The Somers System of Real Estate Appraisal" will be treated of in a paper to be read by James G. Stafford, of Los Angeles, secretary of the federation.

A number of technical subjects relating to advertising and selling problems of the real estate man, his office system, methods, etc., will be treated thoroughly by experts, the aim being to lift the business of dealing in real estate as agents for owners and investors, and through the discussion and study of these phases of it, to place it on a plane equal in its professional sense with that of bankers, lawyers and engineers.

Discussion of taxation reform, the blue-sky law, held up by referendum petition until the next general election; state realty license law, and other legislation affecting real estate interests, probably will be a feature of the session. Legislation and prosecution of fakers and unprincipled dealers, and other lines of work, will be given attention.

At the annual federation banquet, at Hotel Del Monte, scheduled for Saturday evening, October 18th, several prominent speakers will address the delegates. President C. C. Moore, of the Panama-Pacific exposition, and Wingfield Hogeboom, of the Panama-Pacific exposition, will speak of "The Significance of the 1915 Expositions to California."

Senator Lee C. Gates, of Los Angeles, probably will deliver a message from the Los Angeles Realty board in his famous style. Mayor James Rolph, of San Francisco, and Moyer Mott of Oakland (a former president of the federation), "Dan" Carmichael, president of the Sacramento chamber of commerce and past president of the federation, and others, will make the banquet a brilliant affair.

COUNTY WILL MAKE SPLENDID EXHIBIT

Tuesday, October 14th, has been designated as Contra Costa day at the California land show, which opens next Saturday in the mammoth tent which has been erected at the corner of Eighth and Market streets, San Francisco, and which will continue for two weeks. The exhibit which this county is to maintain at the show will be one of the finest of the many displays and Commissioner John Birmingham, who has had charge of the arrangements, is confident that this county will win the honors for the first complete exhibit.

In gathering the material for the exhibit, Birmingham was assisted by C. A. Sweeney of Antioch and Geo. Sellers of Knightsen. Among the agriculturists and manufacturers who will exhibit are Colton Bros. and L. M. Lasell of Martinez; Claylock and Dean and Wright Bros. of Jersey Island; Hickmott Asparagus Canning company of Pittsburg; H. W. & W. E. Meek of Bradford Island; George Smith of Knightsen, and Eli Hitchinson of Concord; California Wine association, Standard Oil company, Western Pipe and Steel company of Richmond; California Paper and Board Mills, Redwood Manufacturing company; California

GAS CONTAINER NEARLY COMPLETED

The work on the Pacific Gas and Electric company's gas container will be completed in a few days. The tank at the present time is about forty feet in height.

The tank when completed will hold enough gas in storage to last the people of this city for several days in case a leak should occur in the line between this city and Oakland.

LEAGUES WILL HOLD MEETING TOMORROW

The members of the Epworth league of the Wesley Methodist church will hold a meeting tomorrow evening at the church, corner of Ninth street and Nevin avenue. The election of officers for the ensuing year will take place.

Other business of importance is expected to come before the meeting. and Hawaiian Sugar Refining company, Selby Smelting and Lead company, Mountain Copper company, Standard Oil company and the Bal-four-Guthrie company, which will show its great irrigation system in miniature.

RABID DOG GIVES PEOPLE BIG SCARE

A dog, afterwards found to be rabid, ran amuck on the west side of town this morning and caused considerable consternation by running up and down Washington avenue and snapping at passers-by. Poundmaster Smith was finally called and soon had the dog in the city pound wagon.

That no one was bitten by the animal is remarkable, as several small children were playing in the street at the time the animal was on his mad rampage.

WOMAN TAKEN TO LOS ANGELES

Constable Roger A. Woodbury, of Los Angeles, arrived in this city this afternoon to take Mrs. Jane Howitt, of Pullman, who was arrested by the local police on a felony charge sworn to by her husband, to Los Angeles.

Constable Woodbury will leave for the southern city with his charge tomorrow evening by way of the Southern Pacific. The case, according to Woodbury, is nothing more than a lovers quarrel.

BLUFFS WITH GUN IS ARRESTED

Louis Zelano, an Italian, was arrested last evening by the local police for bluffing several people at a local hotel with an empty revolver, which he threatened to discharge if they made the slightest move.

Following the bluffing with the revolver he began to use some indecent language, which he kept up until he was placed under arrest by Officer Phillips of the local police department.

L. C. Finch, representing the Hauschild Music company, of Oakland, was a business visitor in this city this afternoon.

WANTS TO SELL HORSE MEAT HERE

RICHMOND MAN ASKS STATE BOARD OF HEALTH FOR PERMIT TO ESTABLISH AND OPERATE FACTORY FOR PREPARATION OF HORSE MEAT AND BY-PRODUCTS

HEALTH AUTHORITIES REFUSE TO GIVE NAME OF PARTY APPLYING FOR PERMIT—WILL ALSO MANUFACTURE SAUSAGE FROM HORSE FLESH

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 6.—Application was made Saturday to the state board of health for a permit to establish and operate a factory at Richmond, Cal., for the preparation of horse meat to be used as food. The applicant was a German, but the health board refused to give out his name. The German also wanted the right to manufacture sausage.

Before a decision can be reached the board of health announces that it must solve three problems. They are: Do the pure food laws prohibit the use of horse meat as food? How would such food be labeled, and what standard should be established for its inspection?

That the applicant for the permit to establish a factory in Richmond for the preparation of horse flesh for consumption is not at the present time engaged in business in Richmond was verified today by a Record-Herald reporter, who made the rounds of the different butcher shops and sausage factories and made inquiries relative to the matter.

All the Richmond butchers were emphatic in their denials that they

"To Observations Which Ourselves We Make, We Grow More Partial, for the Observer's Sake."

Just a Little Tariff Talk

The Pacific Rural Press, a very good agricultural journal, seems to be unreconcilable about the lowering of the tariff by the present Democratic administration, and refuses to be comforted. It sure does beat everything how anything like that can become ingrowing because of long years of association. It almost seems like these old standpat editors and politicians would rather have hard times and high prices under a protective tariff than a lower cost of living and good times without their beloved tariff. They have preached that doctrine all their lives and now have tariff on the brain, notwithstanding that it has been positively proven to them that it is nothing more or less than tax upon the people that does not in any way benefit the people, and does not in the least hold up or raise the wages of American labor, but simply goes into the pockets of rich corporations and trusts that have amassed swollen fortunes by bleeding the masses of the people on every morsel they eat and every stitch of clothing they wear, to the end that the working classes of the country, although receiving more wages than ever, can barely make two ends meet and have to scrimp the tables of their families for meat, butter and many other necessary articles of food, and buy the cheapest of clothing.

Here is a fine sample of the logic of the Pacific Rural Press. We submit it as a fair sample of the same kind of logic and argument, these high protective tariff standpat papers and politicians hand out to an intelligent people all over this broad land, and the funny thing about it is that most of them actually believe in themselves. The Press says:

"The report comes from Oxnard, Ventura county, that on September 26 the American Beet Sugar company announced a reduction of 75 cents per ton in the prices to be paid growers for beets in the 1914 season. And what is this for? To give the people cheaper sugar? Not on your life. The sugar-cane industry of the south and the beet-sugar industry of the western states could easily have convinced congress that cheaper sugar for the people depends upon the extension of the home-grown sugar industries and will not come through dependence upon foreign production."

Now, if the Press will kindly answer this question we will all feel better. If "cheap sugar for the people depends upon the extension of the home-grown sugar industries," how comes it that the price of sugar to the dear people is 25 per cent (one-fourth) more today than it was before ever California or Colorado manufactured a pound of it? If the price of sugar to the consumer has risen 25 per cent in ten years under a protected home-grown system, how long would it take under an extension of that same system to put the price of sugar to the consumer to a point where he couldn't afford to have it on his table at all? The answer is ten years, under the same ratio it has been working during the last ten years.

The trouble with all these standpatters is that they never consider anybody but the producer, and if they will kindly inform an anxious public why in thunder a thousand consumers should be taxed into poverty to protect one producer, we would all be much obliged. Confound the producer! We are all getting sick and tired of his doing the baby act all his life while the vast army of consumers pay the freight. The producer and the manufacturer has been sucking the teat of protection ever since we can remember, yet like Oliver Twist, is always for more pap. In God's name what station does the consumer get off at?

There are a thousand, aye, several thousand, consumers to one producer and manufacturer, and we do not believe in taxing the many for the sole benefit of the few. That is what is the matter with this country, and the only thing that is the matter with it—nourishing the few at the expense of the many.

If the sugar factories are cutting down the price of beets to a point where it does not pay the farmer to raise them, there is nothing to hinder the farmer seeding and planting his land to hay, hogs, turnips, wheat, pumpkins or tomatoes, or anything else it will grow at a profit. There never was much in growing sugar beets, anyway, and nine out of ten beet field workers are the lowest class of cheap imported foreign labor.

And what applies to this sugar deal applies to every other necessity the people have to buy. We, the people, the great mass of consumers, have been robbed, duped, flimflammed and sand-bagged long enough for the benefit of the few, and if those few don't like it now they are at liberty to do the same as the majority are doing—quit grouching and get out and hustle for a living at whatever comes handy.

POISONING SQUAD HAVE RALLY TODAY

MARTINEZ, Oct. 6.—Field Inspector T. S. McGraw of the federal service has selected another section of his territory for a squirrel extermination campaign, and has asked the farmers to meet on Monday and Tuesday, October 6th and 7th, for a rally.

Supervising Inspector Pinkham will take charge of the district east of Carmella Way, the Hook road, and along the south side of the Pacheco road to the Loucks property at Pacheco. Mr. McGraw will oversee the mixing and distribution of the grain and poison in the district along the northerly district of the Pacheco road from Martinez town limits to the bay, including all of the land bordering on the tules, most of which is owned by companies, to the Santa Fe railroad and thence to Pacheco town limits.

Hitherto many tracts have been damaged by squirrels having their abode in the railroad fills but the Santa Fe company and the government inspectors have a perfect understanding of the situation and if the squirrels from the railroad property survive two portions of "feed" it will be up to some one to find a mixture of which one meal will be sufficient.

Reports have not been received from all of the tracts which were included in the rally of a week ago in the Vine Hill-Muir section.

CALWA WALLOPS CLERKS 1 TO 0

The Calwa lads, in one of the fastest games played on the local first street ball grounds, yesterday carried off the long end of a 1 to 0 score from their opponents, the Santa Fe clerks, and also fifty big round iron washers which had been put up for the team winning the best two out of three games.

Pretty Pinlike Pinkerton, for the Calwa lads, displayed form in the box that was a rare treat for the fans, and the fact that he struck out nine men and allowed but three hits shows that he is fast coming out of the ranks of the amateurs into the ranks of A1 players. Bradley, for the clerks, was at his best, but had a little hard luck in that he walked one man, while the tall product of the Calwa plant did not allow a solitary player to reach the first station on a pass.

Both teams were at their best and have no kick coming, as the best team won. There is a movement under way to begin another series, as the clerks have an idea that with a little more practice they can stop the Calwa lads in nine innings with the long end of the score. If the coming series fails to be put through, the game yesterday afternoon practically ends baseball in this city, and the only way the fans will be able to enjoy the national pastime will be to follow the world's series, which promises to be close this year.

CLERICAL FORCE ENJOYS CLAM BAKE

Over forty of the clerical force of the Standard Oil office in this city attended the annual clam bake which was held near Point Orient yesterday afternoon. One of the features of the day was a ball game, in which the married men and single men were the opposing factions, the married men winning by a score of 7 to 5.

Those on the committee for the big event saw to it that all who attended the clam bake had a pleasant time.

LOCAL DOCTOR SAYS "I KNOW NOTHING ABOUT THE CASE"

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—A. Carnegie Ross, British consul of San Francisco, has been appointed by the high court of chancery in England to take testimony in the famous Slingsby substituted baby case. Lieutenant and Mrs. Charles Raymond Slingsby, who claim the child as their own, as said to be on their way from Vancouver, B. C., to San Francisco to testify.

Upon the testimony taken in San Francisco will depend the disposition of the large estate in Yorkshire, yielding an income of $50,000 a year. It is possible that many of the witnesses who will give testimony in San Francisco will be called to London.

When Lieutenant Slingsby started the fight for the Slingsby fortune a year ago, his brother opposed his claims by offering proof that the baby was not the offspring of his wife but the child of a California school girl substituted for one that had been still-born in San Francisco in 1910.

In the event that the claims of the brother are sustained, the Yorkshire estate will revert from Lieutenant Slingsby to his brother and his heirs. Mrs. Dorothy Cutler Slingsby, mother of the disputed heir, is firm in her contention that the child which she now has is the one that was born in San Francisco in the fall of 1910.

It is expected that the taking of depositions of the various witnesses will take several weeks. Among them will be Mrs. Hattie Bain, Mrs. Slingsby's nurse; Dr. W. W. Fraser of Richmond, who issued the birth certificate in the case, and the secretary of the state board of health.

A Record-Herald reporter called on Dr. Fraser today and asked him what he knew concerning the celebrated case in which he would be called upon to testify. The doctor stated he had nothing to give out to the press. "I know nothing about the matter," he said.

Pertinent Remarks About Well-known People in ♦♦ Richmond and Happenings About Town ♦♦

Attorney DeLap was a passenger to the county seat this morning.

Attorney H. J. Wildgrube was a visitor to the county seat this morning.

The San Francisco newspapers have had several corps of reporters over here today working up a story on the Stege murder case.

The reception to Rev. W. S. Stewart, of the Calvary Baptist church, by his congregation, will be held next Friday evening in the church, on Tenth street.

Mrs. E. O. Miller, daughter of Mrs. Halwick, came down from Seattle last evening to spend a few weeks visiting in Richmond. Mrs. Miller has been residing at Seattle for the past three years.

C. B. Evans, a pioneer business man of this city, has affiliated himself with the Clark Undertaking company of this city. Evans is well known in Richmond and has a host of friends.

Mrs. Annie Treanor, mother of Mrs. W. E. Cunningham and Miss Viola Treanor, came up from San Jose last evening and is a guest at the new Cunningham home on the Nicholl Civic Center tract.

Judge C. A. Clark, the well known Point Richmond attorney, was a visitor to Martinez today. The judge, it is said, is looking after his fences in the northern part of the county. He has an eye on the district attorney's office and will make a try for the job at the next election.

E. Horner, the well known newspaper man on the Richmond Terminal, is suffering from what the doctors have pronounced as a tumor under his chin. To a newspaper man it looks as if Eric were indulging in roast chicken and other fattening foods to a great extent.

There will be no meeting of the city council this evening owing to the fact that a majority of the membership of the board are attending the convention of the League of the Pullman Municipalities at Venice. Mayor Ludwig will call the meeting any additional wooden cars nor to order and will then adjourn to pair those already on hand when next Monday evening, October 15th, badly worn out.

Frank Critchett, wealthy realty operator of Oakland, was a visitor in town this afternoon.

Sergeant Ruiz is acting chief of Police during the time the head of the department is absent from the city.

Attorney C. Odell went up to the county seat this morning to attend to some litigation in the superior court.

Sheriff Veale was in this city this afternoon investigating the murder of the Domingo girl, who was found Saturday evening at the foot of the cap works wharf at Stege.

Miss Ono Jeffry, a graduate of the Richmond Polytechnic Business college, has accepted a position with the Santa Fe company as stenographer.

A truck carrying a heavy load of lumber broke down on Standard avenue, near the Santa Fe tracks this morning, delaying traffic on that street for some time. The lumber was from the Morgan Lumber company, of Oakland, and was to be used on a west side residence.

Dr. M. M. Mitchell, the well known Martinez dentist, will locate in Richmond. It is said that the doctor is contemplating selling his practice at the county seat to a dentist from San Francisco. Mr. Mitchell is a Richmond property holder.

Health Commissioner Blake departed this afternoon for Venice, California. The doctor will attend the meeting of the health commissioners' association of the state, which convenes at that city today. He will read his paper, "The Venereal Disease Problem," before the convention of medical men next Friday.

The Pullman company is destroying its wooden sleeping and tourist cars out at the Pullman factory. The cars are set on fire and burned to the ground, after which the brasses and other metal portions of the cars are gathered up and used again. It is the policy of the Pullman company not to manufacture any additional wooden cars nor to order and will then adjourn to pair those already on hand when next Monday evening, October 15th, badly worn out.

ELKS CONVENTION AT PORTOLA FIESTA

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—Bigger grandstand space will be needed in San Francisco for the Portola festival of October 22nd to 25th than was required when the nation paid tribute to President Wilson at his inauguration. The demand has necessitated the ordering of 600,000 feet of lumber—a good-sized shipload.

The Portola festival committee has announced that the only stands built for the three big parades and other features of the fiesta, including the court levees of the queen and Balboa, her consort, will be constructed by the committee itself. Advance orders for season tickets are today coming in by mail and even wire from all over the state.

These season tickets are selling at $1.50, including reserved seats for all the parades. It is declared that the entire seating capacity will be sold out days before the opening of the fiesta.

The building of the stands is in the hands of A. Forrester Devereux, with headquarters in the Portola offices, Underwood building, San Francisco. Devereux has built stands for spectacles all over the country, including those for the last inauguration at Washington.

Every lodge of Elks in California including the Richmond lodge, will be represented at the convention of the order to be held here during the Portola, October 23rd, to outline plans for a state association. The right to do this was one of the victories of the California Elks, who waged a Portola campaign at the recent grand lodge at Rochester.

Poundmaster Smith has had a hard time during the last three days. He has caught four rabid dogs since Friday. The dogs have developed unusually severe cases of rabies and the people of Richmond should be careful with their pets.

William Norton was a visitor in this city this afternoon from San Francisco. Norton, who is a former high school boy of this city, has accepted a position with the Owl Drug company of San Francisco.

MESSIAH'S KINGDOM.

The Glorious Day of Divine Favor is Nearing.

The period in which sin is permitted has been a dark night to humanity, never to be forgotten; but the glorious day of righteousness and divine favor is soon to be ushered in by Messiah. He, as the SUN OF RIGHT-BOUSNESS, shall arise and shine fully and clearly into and upon all, bringing healing and blessing, which will more than counterbalance the dreadful night of weeping, sighing, pain, sickness and death, in which the groaning creation has been so long. "Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the MORNING."

We eat too much meat which clogs Kidneys; then back hurts and Bladder bothers you

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoon in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

STATE GAME AND FISH COMMISSION EXPLAINS NEW GAME REGULATIONS

San Francisco, October 5, 1913.
Editor Record-Herald,
Richmond, California.

The California fish and game commission and the United States department of agriculture, have, during the past three months issued a number of pamphlets, cards and booklets, containing information relative to the proposed measures for the better protection of migratory game and insectivorous birds in this state. These publications were correct at the time of their issuance, but, on account of action taken by the authorities in Washington during the last week in September, the state commission feels that certain explanations are called for.

In order that the situation may be properly understood, it may be best to recount the history of the federal legislation which has so complicated the situation in this state during the present year. On March 4th, President Taft approved what has become known as the "Weeks-McLean Act," which purports to place within the custody and protection of the government of the United States all migratory game and insectivorous birds. One of the important provisions of this act is that the department of agriculture shall adopt and promulgate regulations designed to protect the migratory birds of the country. Such regulations were prepared by the department, issued on June 23rd, and have been examined and considered for the ninety-day period provided in the federal act. As anticipated, a number of changes in the regulations have been found desirable and have been made. The regulations in their final form seem to have received the approval of both the secretary of agriculture and the president on October 1st, and, consequently, became effective at once.

The new regulations materially change the situation in California so far as the species provided for are concerned. As an example: California has no state law on wild geese, coots (known locally as mud-hens) and the wild or band-tail pigeon; the regulations provide that geese and coots may not be shot in this state between February 1st and October 15th of any year, and that the wood-duck, wild pigeon and rail be removed from the shooting list for five years.

The duck hunters in the state are particularly affected in this, that no shooting may be done prior to October 15th, nor after the last day of January, while under the state law which has been in effect for two years, shooting could lawfully begin in game districts 1 and 6 on October 1st, and could continue throughout the state until the last day of February.

The hunters in game district 1 must take cognizance of the fact that the new regulations put a stop to the shooting of black sea-brant during the first two weeks in October, which period has been open under the state law.

The regulations remove from the game list entirely, all of the cranes which have, as a matter of fact, been protected under the California law, although the sportsmen have not generally understood the situation. One of the most radical changes with which the sportsmen will have to become familiar is the one taking off the shooting or open list all of the shore-birds except the black-breasted and golden plover, the Wilson or Jack snipe, known also as the English snipe, and the yellow-legs. All of the other shore-birds, properly known as avocets, curlew, dowitchers, godwits, knots, oyster-catchers, plovers, "killdeer," sandpipers, stilts, surf-birds, turnstones, willits, etc., most of which have a number of common names, can no longer be lawfully trapped, shot or had in possession at any time.

As a result of investigations that have been carried on by the biological survey for about twenty years, it has been demonstrated that practically all the non-game birds of the country are too valuable to agricultural and other interests to be killed. The federal regulations contemplate and complete protection of all such birds, which measure, but in no material degree, supplements the law now in effect in this state.

California is one of the states that have what is known as a "night-shooting law." Under the state law shooting could be lawfully begin a half hour before sunrise and continue until a half hour after sunset. The regulations, however, provide that no hunting may be done for any migratory game birds before sunrise or after sunset, which shortens the shooting period a full hour.

According to the department of agriculture, the probable effect of the new regulations may be briefly stated as follows:

Uniformity in protection of migratory game and insectivorous birds in the several states.

Protection of birds in spring while en route to their nesting grounds and while mating.

Uniformity in protection of migratory birds at night.

Complete protection for five years for the smaller shore-birds and other species which have become greatly reduced in numbers.

Reduction of the open season on migratory birds, but in most cases not more than 25 to 50 per cent.

In comparing the information given in this article with the publications that have been issued by the fish and game commission, various gaps, stores, and others, many differences will be noted. Except as stated in this article, however, the other publications may be accepted as being correct. The regulations affect only migratory birds and have no relation in any way to non-migratory species of birds or to animals, among which may be named deer, rabbits, squirrels, quail, grouse, sage-hen, and doves. The regulations do not in any way relate to fish.

The Weeks-McLean bill is considered by leading conservationists as being the most important bit of game legislation ever enacted. So far as can be determined at this time, the regulations that affect California are altogether for the good of the state and should insure the perpetuation of the many interesting and valuable birds that come to us as visitors during some part of the year. The commission believes that the public will accept these new measures for what they are, the earnest attempt of conscientious men, having in view only the preservation of the state's and country's rapidly disappearing species. There is every reason to believe that without increasing protection every desirable species in the United States will be extinct before the end of another generation. An opportunity for checking the terrible slaughter which has been waged throughout the country during the last decade is now ours. Let us make the most of it.

Respectfully submitted,
FISH AND GAME COMMISSION,
ERNEST SCHAFFLE,
Assistant Commissioner.

The Misses Velma and Helen Webb, formerly residents of this city, and now residing at Riverbank, left this morning for their home after spending several days in this city.

Should Convince Every Richmond Reader

The frank statement of a neighbor telling the merits of a remedy, bids you pause and believe. The same endorsement by some stranger far away commands no belief at all. Here's a Richmond case. A Richmond citizen testifies. Read and be convinced. B. Vogelsang, blacksmith, 324 Third street, Richmond, Cal., says: "I was troubled by pains across my kidneys. They bothered me, especially when I first got up in the morning or when I tried to sit down. I heard Doan's Kidney Pills so highly recommended that I got a box. They completely relieved the pain and made my kidneys normal. The benefit has lasted and I have had no symptoms of kidney trouble whatever, during the past several years. You may continue publishing the endorsement I have given Doan's Kidney Pills before." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. The Library Corner

Being a condensed account of activities connected with the Richmond Public Library during the past week, together with a chat about books. It is the endeavor of the Record-Herald to make this column a feature every Monday.

A Discussion Center has been established in Richmond by Miss Nadine Crum, secretary of the University of California bureau of Public discussion, and on October 10th there is to be a debate on Mexican intervention. The library has collected a large amount of material on this subject and has set it aside for the use of the debaters.

County Library Whitbeck and City Library Wilsey went over to San Francisco today to make purchases of books for the Richmond library.

USEFUL PAMPHLETS

The library has just received two very useful and interesting pamphlets which can be obtained by application at the desk.

One is a small leaflet entitled, "A Word to the Wise," which calls attention in a clear but careful manner to the relation of the social evil to the youth. It has been considered of such value that the United States bureau of education has asked for 30,000 copies to be distributed by them.

The second pamphlet is of interest to all who enjoy traveling, and especially traveling through their own local land. The pamphlet has been called "Seventeen Trips by Train, Trolley, Boat and Motor," and was compiled and circulated by the Tourist Association of the San Francisco Bay and River Counties for the benefit of travelers in California.

Some of the trips described are: To Mount Tamalpais and Muir woods; Historic 'Portola Discovery trip,' thirty miles along the ocean shore; to Mount Diablo in Contra Costa county; a day's tour in Marin county, "The Switzerland of America"; a day's tour in Contra Costa county; and many others, all very accurately described and of practical value.

The library has about two dozen of this second pamphlet which it will be glad to furnish to those who care for it.

HISTORY

The function of History is to draw accurately a picture of past events, and in the degree in which this is done we have a more or less true representation of former times. But it has been proved that there is no branch of literature in which there has been so little success. Histories have been written in thousands, but the really outstanding historical studies are easily found, as they are not numerous. The combination of qualities that go to make the historian is seldom found in one individual. Vast knowledge, vivid visualizing power, a sense of proportion and historical perspective, a fluent and clear style of writing, a lack of bias, and, above all, an "infinite capacity for taking pains," are some of the qualities required of the historical writers whose works are written for all time.

As biography is the microcosm of the race so is history the macrocosm. In biography we see the individual in relation to others, while in history we see collections of individuals in relation to the race, and in world-history the progress of mankind from remote animalism to the civilization of today. At this point philosophy takes up the story, and by reasoning on the past, endeavors to draw a picture of the future. But no philosophy can predict what the future of the race may be. In biology the evolutionary process has not been carried on by an even gradation, but by mutation; so in the development of the human race, mentally and physically, we cannot foresee what course the current of evolution may take. History, however, deals with the past, and in deducting effects from its data we are entering the field of the philosophy of history.

Our purpose at present is not to discuss these questions of we propose to deal with them at another time, but to induce the reader to include History in his course of systematic reading. There are few of us but are interested in the past adventures and experiences of our ancestors. The study of History brings before us panoramically the struggles of mankind in its upward course. It is a stimulus to the student to know that the privileges he enjoys today have been wrenched one by one from tyrants; it makes him appreciate those rights and rouses him to hand them on untarnished and undiminished to his children. The lesson of History is lost, however, if it fosters a narrow patriotism. It is right that a man should love his native country best, but his patriotism must not stop there. He is one of the great brotherhood of the human race, and it is his individual part to help all mankind.

History is not a mere matter of dates, nor the personal struggles of kings. It is the recorded story of mankind in its struggle with his environment, from the misty past till this morning's paper. Many people regard it as a dry and musty study, and as an apology for their inability to read it claim that they prefer to make history rather than read it. This is the blindness of ignorance. No man can ever make the most of the present unless he has a knowledge of the past. We are creatures of memory, and books are memories. The more we can assimilate the memories of the past the more effective will be our action and thought in the present.

In the reading of History it is well that the reader begin in the field of his own locality. Every yard of his surroundings has some story to tell. From this point he can widen his circle till he takes in the history of his country, the history of his state and the history of his country as a whole. The interrelations of his country will show him that there is world-history beyond in which the histories of all countries are synthesized. From this it will be seen how the study of History will broaden the outlook, and give the reader an idea of his position in the cosmos. Besides broadening his outlook it will increase his sympathies with men of other nations; he will see that virtue is not confined to one country or people.

For those who wish to have a full and judicious knowledge of the history of the United States, Bancroft's "History of the United States from the Discovery of the American Continent to the Close of the Revolutionary War" will furnish an admirable study. It has been held to be by far the most elaborate and the most carefully prepared history of the colonial and revolutionary periods yet published. He was an unusually brilliant writer, and his capacities were recognized all over the world and secured for him the freedom of all the libraries of Europe and America when preparing his great work. Consequently his sources have been more numerous and more important than those possessed by any other historian of America. This work cost him nearly fifty years of untiring zeal and untiring effort, a devotion that stands out as almost unprecedented in the history of literature. While it is accurate in fact it contains also a philosophical discussion of the various principles and ideas that have entered into the structure of American government and society. As a popular history of the United States, Ridpath's may also be read. It does not profess the scholarship of Bancroft, but it is suited to the busy man. It has not the accuracy nor completeness of Bancroft, but it glows with patriotic fervor.

No American can neglect his knowledge of English history, as it is from that race that all his notions of liberty and democracy have sprung. Macaulay stands out pre-eminently as one of the greatest English historians. His "History of England, from the Accession of James II" is perhaps the most popular history ever written. Macaulay's style is brilliant. His history is a marvel of research, and he has a marvelous power of portraiture, but there is a touch of partisanship throughout his work. John Richard Green's "Short History of the English People" is at once handy and authoritative. Instead of sketching the careers of kings and nobles, he traces the life of the people from the time of the landing of Julius Caesar.

In ancient history, Grote's "History of Greece" is unsurpassed. Whatever a historical work should be, this is. While written in a poor style, it possesses all the merit of learning, research and power of conviction. But the greatest historical work ever written is generally held to be Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire." Gibbon's historical knowledge is appalling to the scholarship of the present day. It took him over twenty-two years of unstinted investigations over the whole range of intellectual activity for a period of 1500 years. His sceptical attitude towards Christianity has been severely criticized, but no errors of any importance have been found in his writing. The gorgeous magnificence, the variety and boundless range of his thought, are all fittingly blended. We should like to have space to deal with Buckle's "History of Civilization." Buckle was educated by his mother, and in his manhood was master of all the principal languages of Europe. He spent ten hours a day for seventeen years on his work, and at his death it was incomplete, consequently his history is only a magnificent fragment. While he was an accurate historian, he claimed that in his study of history he was forced to conclude that (1) There was no Free Will; (2) Statistics proved that human actions are governed by laws as fixed as those in the physical world; (3) Soil, food and the aspects of Nature were the principal causes of intellectual progress; (4) The difference between European and American history was that in Europe man was stronger than nature, elsewhere nature was stronger than man; (5) Man's progress was due not to moral agencies which are stationary, but to intellectual activity which constantly varies and advances; (6) Religion, literature and government are the products and not the cause of civilization, and (7) Civilization advances with the advance of scepticism, the disposition to doubt and investigate. Credulity, or the protective spirit, is stationary, and has a disposition to maintain without examination established creeds and practices.

Space does not permit us to refer to the work of Mezey and other notable historians, but the diligent student will inevitably discover them.

CRUEL DETECTIVE WILL APPEAR OCT. 10

R. B. Henry, Burns detective, charged with "assault under color of authority as an officer," as a result of cruelly beating Alfred Nelson, alleged member of the I. W. W., while the latter was in the custody of Sheriff Veale for participation in the Wheatland riots, will be given a preliminary hearing before Judge Hayden next Friday, October 10th, at Martinez. At that time will be determined whether the Burns man is to have the charges against him dismissed or be held to answer to the superior court.

Only a short time after he had been placed under arrest for assaulting Nelson, Henry was given a taste of the same treatment, being attacked in San Francisco last Tuesday night and receiving a badly bruised countenance and contusions of the eye. A physician's certificate was presented in the Martinez justice's court with Henry's request for a continuance of his hearing. At first it was planned by District Attorney McKenzie to have the hearing set for October 15th or 17th, to give the accused detective time to recover from his injuries. However, following a conference between Judge Hayden and the district attorney, it was decided to postpone Henry's hearing only one week. Henry was to have come before Judge Hayden today.

Attorney E. B. Taylor will represent Henry. It is understood.

The maximum penalty for the felony with which Henry is charged is a fine of $5000 or five years' imprisonment in the penitentiary. The detective is out on $2000 bail.

INTERVENTION IN MEXICO TO BE TOPIC

The Richmond Discussion Center, recently organized here by the University of California, will meet Friday evening, October 10th, at the city hall. At the last meeting of the Discussion Center they had for the topic to be discussed, "Communist Form of Government for Municipalities." The meeting was well attended and the interest was keen. At that meeting a committee was appointed to select the next meeting place. The city hall was decided upon and it is hoped a capacity audience will be present to hear the debate between students from the University at Berkeley. The subject will be: "Resolved, That the United States shall intervene in Mexico." There will be three debaters on each side; each speaker will speak ten minutes, with an extra three minutes for the affirmative rebuttal.

The University authorities wish it to be well understood that the debaters are not sent here to instruct but merely to open up discussion and add their enthusiasm to the meeting. It is hoped that the audience will do more than ask questions, that they will come to the meeting prepared to take part in the informal discussion which will follow the debate. The success of the Discussion center depends not on the speakers who will be sent here to present various subjects, but upon the enthusiasm of the members themselves. Everybody in Richmond is invited to join.

Anyone wishing to prepare more fully for the discussion will find books and information at the public library.

It took time and patience. Evidently the body was laid on its back on the bench. Railing wire was used to fasten the chain to the undershirt. On top of the body the big rail was laid, and the chain was wound around and around the waist and tied and tangled so that it would not become unfastened. Finally, as an additional precaution, the lead cylinder was tied to the other weights.

Weighted down with over 120 pounds of metal, the body was hard to move. It was evidently dragged off the beach and shoved to the water's edge and then dropped into the water. The scratch on the boards shows plainly how the rail wore a groove as it slid over the edge into the bay.

Had the young woman's body been thrown into deeper water it is a question if the murder would have been discovered at all. As it was, four days after the body was consigned to the waves, a telltale receding tide revealed what the murderer had imagined would always be his own secret.

Body Found By Boys

A group of lads, A. Duschene, Clyde Munday, H. Simmons and T. Moser, bathing at the wharf's end, caught a glimpse of the body just below the surface of the water. They hurried to notify the police without making an investigation.

The autopsy, which was held Saturday night, established the fact that the girl was killed before she was thrown into the water.

Just how she was killed it is difficult to say, the action of the water having made the investigation difficult. But marks on the face and body showed plainly that the young woman had suffered violence. There was a bad cut on the upper lip, the mouth being torn, as if she had been struck in the face by some heavy weapon. There was another discoloration under the right eye, and there were bruises on the right arm and on the neck.

Hunts Among the Shacks

Somewhere in one of the many little shacks which dot the Stege flats, the police of Richmond hope to find the missing chapter to the story. Police Officer George Betts, whose home and beat is in Stege,

MURDERED GIRL'S FUNERAL POSTPONED

The funeral of the late Rosa Domingo, who was so foully murdered, which was to have taken place tomorrow morning from the Smallwood chapel on Macdonald avenue has been postponed by an order from the office of District Attorney A. B. McKenzie.

The order to postpone the funeral is made so that in case the murderer should be captured within the next few days and shown the corpse of the dead woman a full confession may be had from him.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Lester, of this city, who have been spending several days in the mountains of Sonora, on an auto trip, will arrive in this city about the latter part of this week.

is spending all his time in the little village, the scene of many peculiar crimes and unsolved mysteries. Betts was the first to suggest that the unidentified body was that of Rosa Domingo, and he is following independent lines of inquiry, which, he hopes, will result in finding the murderer and proving him guilty.

The movements of the Domingo girl are being carefully traced, one of the queries being why she went to Stege without notifying her own family.

Possible Motive for Crime

The only motive that can be assigned by the police for the murder of the girl that she possibly refused to marry Saidali Kahn, the man known as the Turk, who disappeared about the time the girl was seen last. Wednesday, it has been learned, Saidali Kahn purchased some chickens and informed persons in Stege that he intended to have a big dinner in honor of his approaching marriage to Rosa Domingo. The banquet came off, according to the dead girl's brother, and it is thought that the girl must at this time, for some reason, have spurned the attentions of her admirer, and as a result paid the penalty with her life.

THINGS ALL OUGHT TO KNOW

As Christian Bible Students—The Satisfactory Proof of "Why God Permits Evil."

One of the questions which comes to nearly every thinking mind today is, "Why does God permit evil?" As we look about us in the world we observe that it is filled with sorrow and trouble, sickness and pain and every-thing we could enumerate, and we cannot help wondering WHY GOD ALLOWS IT. We realize that He is almighty and that He could prevent it if He wished. We read in His Word that He is more willing to do for His children than are earthly parents for theirs, and we know how much that means; yet oftentimes it seems that those who try to do and live right have the most trouble. This question is made very clear in a book entitled, "The Divine Plan of the Ages." Every statement is backed by Scripture, and shows that while God does not sanction evil HE HAS HAD A PURPOSE IN ALLOWING SIN AND DEATH TO REIGN THESE SIX THOUSAND YEARS. This and many other subjects of deep interest to all of God's people are discussed fully and in language easy of comprehension.

In English, German, Swedish, Danish, Norwegian, Italian, French, Greek, Hungarian, Spanish, Polish, Hollandish, Finnish, (Syriac and Turk-Armenian in preparation.) 855 pages, cloth bound, 35 cents postpaid. Address Bible and Tract Society, 17 Hicks Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

MURDERED GIRL IS IDENTIFIED

projects from the California-Cap company's plant into the bay at Stege.

Identification was made definitely last night at 8 o'clock at the Point Richmond branch morgue by the weeping father and the two sisters, Julia and Mary, although the mother and brother, Manuel, had stolidly refused to credit what they say. The reason for this was the fact that the girl's hair, when last seen by the mother, was coal black. At the time of the finding of the body it had evidently been treated with peroxide, for it was of a decided blonde.

Young Manuel Domingo made a special trip to San Francisco in the afternoon to hunt for his sister, hoping to find her at her lodging house, at 82 Perry street. He returned, discouraged and despondent, having learned that his sister had been missing for four days. Her room he found unoccupied, its contents intact, letters under the door unopened, proving that she had not been in her apartment since September 20th.

Wanted to Marry Girl

The identification established, city and county authorities at Richmond, who had been hard at work on the case all day, redoubled their efforts to find the slayer.

The brother told the police that he believed a "black man" who was much in love with the girl might be able to throw some light on the tragedy. This man, ever since March, said Manuel Domingo, had been in ardent pursuit of her, begging her to marry him. She had encouraged his advances, the lad said, and she had not only corresponded with him, but had visited him in his shack at Stege, only half a mile from the place where the murdered girl's body was found day before yesterday.

Suspect Drops From Sight

M. Saidali, or Sedell Kahn, as young Domingo calls the "black man" in question, is said to be either a Turk or a Hindu, is 30 years of age, a wrapper employed at the Metropolitan Match factory. Three days ago he suddenly left Stege, explaining to Mary Domingo, sister of the slain girl, that he had been "called to San Jose on account of the death of a friend." He has not been seen since.

The case was further complicated last night by the introduction of another man's name, Charles Riley, a teamster, 50 years of age, a married man, whose wife is confined in an insane asylum. Riley's attentions to Rosa Domingo angered her father, and the girl kept the latter irritated by threatening to marry the man.

One extraordinary feature of the relations of these two was the fact that in San Francisco, where she worked as a waitress in a coffee house at 710 Harrison street, Rosa Domingo went under the name of "Kitty Riley." Letters found in her room were addressed to "Mrs. Riley."

The Contra Costa county authorities declared last night that they would at once seek these men. (Clothing Is Not Found)

As far as the investigation had gone at a late hour last night, nothing had been found of the clothing which the girl wore when last seen. Those who saw her leave her lodgings in San Francisco last week say she was clad in a red coat and carried a satchel. When the body was found on the mud-flats here Saturday evening it was nearly nude. Not a scrap of her clothing was found on the wharf, in the water or on the beach.

It is now considered almost certain that the girl's body was thrown into the bay last Wednesday evening, October 1st. The lock on the gate at the wharf was found broken and opened Thursday morning, and it was promptly repaired that same day. The nightwatchman remembers no unusual incident connected with the destruction of the lock, and, as nothing was found missing, he attributed the act to vandals.

In Water Several Days

The date, Wednesday, tallies with the time of the girl's disappearance from her lodgings and her unexplained failure to visit her family after she had written her mother, promising to make a call on Thursday. The autopsy surgeons agree that the condition of the body would indicate that it had been in the water for three or four days.

There is a bench at the extreme end of the Stege wharf, and, on the rough boards yesterday, blood marks were found. On the edge of the wharf there was discovered a fresh scar in the boards, and it was an easy thing to fit into the splinter the heavy iron rail, which was one of the weights used to sink the body. Carried to the Wharf

Reasoning with the evidence in their hands, the police authorities say that the body of the Domingo girl must have been carried down to the wharf from the place where she was killed. If one man did it he must have been possessed of unusual strength and daring, for the girl was easily 140 pounds in weight and there was every chance of being caught in the act. After smashing the lock and effecting an entrance to the wharf, the man, or men, who did the deed had to drag the body 800 feet to the westernmost end of the pier.

Then, from somewhere in the Cap company's yards, from a place which only a man familiar with the plant would find, an 80-pound T-rail was carried out to the wharf's end, and with it a long chain, such as it used to stake out cattle, and, lastly, a 40-pound lead cylinder, such as the powder plant used to test intended to go into the horseflesh business. The applicant spoken of in the Sacramento dispatch is evidently a stranger, or perhaps has not yet made arrangements to locate in this city.

That the slaughter of horses for the purpose of taking the place of high-priced meat is not a solution of the problem of the high cost of living is evidenced from the fact that horses are more valuable than steers or cows. It is out of the question that horses can be prepared for consumption at from $100 to $300 per head. Of course the party who contemplates the establishment of a horse slaughter house in Richmond may have in view the purchase of old and broken down stock. In that case it is doubtful whether the health authorities would grant him a permit.

There is nothing extraordinary about the use of horse flesh for food. In Europe the use of this meat is a boon to the poorer classes and regular shops are maintained for the purpose of selling this kind of meat.

Horse flesh is not considered as good as other meat for human consumption for the reason that it is of a coarser texture and not quite so palatable. But outside of the sentimentality connected with its use there is no reason why it should not be used, provided it can be sold for less than beef, mutton or pork. From a sanitary point of view the horse flesh meat should be preferred to pork, for the horse's diet is not so diversified as that of the hog.
